Hon. Dan Moore, Governor
State of North Carolina
Raleigh, N. C.

Dear Governor:-

From reading the headlines and sub-headings of our newspapers and listening to T-V and Radio these days it would seem that Law and Order has simply disappeared--one would think that the "higher ups" are turning their heads "the other way" rather than look at whats going on.

Fayetteville State College Students "Take over school" and then give their DEMANDS of what must happen before they will in turn give the school back to authorities----- Governor, is there no longer a word known as -Discipline ---couldn't those students simply be expelled from the school ? are we simply to turn everything over to Hoodlums ?

Have we become officials with spineless body's do we no longer have the GUTS to take a hand and stop this senseless taking over things such as above ? How much longer shall we use the slap on the wrist rather than something much stronger.

I sincerely hope our officials awake before its too late.

Sincerely,

G. Alvin Tucker

Dear Mr. Tucker:

Thank you for your letter urging the maintenance of law and order in North Carolina during this critical time.

You may be sure that State Government will stand ready to provide the necessary assistance to local authorities, as has been done in recent days, to suppress violence. This assistance will remain available so long as the current threats to law and order continue.

With best wishes, I am

Sincerely yours,

Dan Moore
